

David Brown, Jr.

March 14, 2005 - February 20, 2005

David Brown, Jr. was born March 14, 1930, in Longbranch, Texas, through the union of David Brown Sr. and Cora Lee Collins. David was the sixth child of David and Cora. He attended local schools in the in Waco, Texas, area. He graduated from Moore High School in Waco, Texas in 1950. He was a store clerk in the H.E.B. Grocery Store after graduation. He met and soon married Naomi Thompson and from this union a son was born, David Carnell Brown. In 1957, David Jr. relocated to Berkeley, California where he joined his siblings. He was gainfully employed by the United States Post Office. Then in 1963 David Jr. married Dorothy Dell Moore in Grovesbeck, Texas. From that union Dana Deneice Brown and David N. Brown III was born. David Jr. was an avid gardener. With his skill and expertise, he developed a landscaping business. His cliental ranged from his immediate neighborhood and expanded throughout the East Bay. In 1989, he retired from the United States Post Office with 34 loyal years of service. After retirement he had a chance to enjoy some of his favorite pastimes, such as attending the Monterey Jazz Festival and enjoying going see great artist in the Jazz circuit. On February 20, 2005 God called David Jr. Home to Glory.

He was survived by Dana Brown-Rodgers his daughter of Bay Point, his tow sons, David Cornell of San Francisco and David III of Hayward. One son-in-law, Adrian Rodgers of Bay Point. One grandson, Cameron Dyson of Bay Point. He is also survived by his sister Eva Joe King of Berkeley, and his brother Hiawatha Brown of Richmond, California. He is also survived by a host of nieces, great-nieces and nephews and great nephews and cousins.