“ What words can I express to everyone of the beauty of this young man that is and will always be my nephew. The fact he called or texted every holiday is probably something several people could say but I can say that I felt special just through the love that came over the phone when he called saying " hi auntie, I'm going to come to visit soon." He was so smart and I was proud of each of his accomplishments. If he set out a goal , he finished it. Baby now you have your wings and that is the highest goal to accomplish. Love auntie Eddie
