“ My auntie Jackie. I'll never hear MyMy and Crackers again. I use to beg to come over. I love and will miss you forever and always. You were such a gift to us. I love you Auntie Jackie.

“ I love you and miss you every second of every day, H.P. (only Jackie knows what that means). You are my everything. I say are, and not "were" because your beautiful spirit lives on. We share many wonderful memories only you and I know. I share them with people who show family love. Nobody but you and I know all the 38 years, the little moments, our secrets. Nobody knows you like me, and I cherish every moment my love. I pray for you, and talk to you almost every day. I dont care where you are, your always my true great, my great love, my best times. You are my friend first, lover and wife. Nobody could break that. Only death separates us. Even thousands of miles apart didnt break us. Evil tried to break us, but our hearts stayed intertwined. I remember your last call, your hope was still there, your love - our love, was still strong even under the evil strain. You had hope. Yes, death took your body - but your spirit is free. I see you in my dreams and feel your love. Rest, beloved. Rest and wait until we are re-united. My live. My wife. HalleluYah. Yah - is in control.

“ Jackie It has been a lifetime since I first meant you when you and Bruce were married. I remember your laugh your sense of humor and that you were an excellent cook. I am grateful that you came into Bruce's life and that you both enjoyed each others company. You will always be a part of my family Jackie even now that you are no long with us on the physical plane. I will meet you in that sweet bye and bye daughter! Rest in heavenly peace!

“ My wife of 38 years. We were married 9/2/1984. We met December 23, 1983. Our first date was January 14, 1984. We were good friends, lovers and husband and wife. She is sorely missed. We were attached to each other, no questions about it. We were bonded by The Most High - one flesh. We knew each others goals, dreams and secrets - an intimate bond only husband and wife share. She was good and honest. Forthright, and truthful, never hid her real self or her real feelings. She was perfection in a woman. Always love, always peace.

I Miss Jackie! It is one thing to not see someone for a while but know that they are okay. It is another when someone is no longer there and have left the earthly realm. Jackie was like a daughter to me and had a wit and sense of humor about life and situations. Letting go is hard but she is no longer suffering and has transcended this earthly realm. We will see you in that Great bye and bye Jackie.
