Remembering...

Jessie Young Jr. was born on January 14, 1928 in Fairbanks, Louisiana to the late Jessie Young Sr. and Annie Key Young. He was one of five children. He accepted Christ at a young age at Shiloh Baptist Church in Fairbanks, LA. He received his education in the Fairbanks School System.

In the 1940's, Jessie relocated to California to work in the shipyard with his father. Jessie was no stranger to hard work. He worked and retired from Cleaners Hanger Company in Union City after 30 years of service.

Grandpa was a good listener, motivator, very comical and an honest encourager. Pops' would always say, "The more I teach you the less I know", which was one of his favorite sayings. He had a passion for baseball and faithfully cheered for the SF Giants. Jessie found great pleasure in watching the Country Western Channel and surprisingly, one of his desired pastimes was watching the "Young & Restless".

Jessie was preceded in death by his parents: Jessie and Annie Young; one brother Earl Lee Young and loving daughter Melba Jean Washington.
