“ Keenan and I were good friends for several years (we met when we worked together at Carl Byoir) until I lost touch with her. I found this obituary page when doing a search to see if she had a Facebook or LI listing, and am very saddened that she is gone. I remember her as bright and funny with an original perspective on almost everything. And I remember her Irish red hair, freckles and infectious smile. I still have a chapter from a children's story she was writing. We had some good times together. Kellin Defiel, San Francisco
