He was always a nice guy with kinds words. When we saw each other at a Reunion we ended up talking for almost an hour about Raider Football and also about cars and Corvettes. No more gentle giant.

“ What a great video and wonderful tribute to a fine man. Ken worked for me at Graybar Electric in Oakland and was truly a "Gentle Giant". However, occasionally, I used his size to my advantage. If I had to terminate an employee and was worried about how it might end I asked Ken to join me during the termination. All I wanted Ken to do was just stand there (not sit) and not say a word. The intimidation factor always worked and I never had a problem with the fired employee.

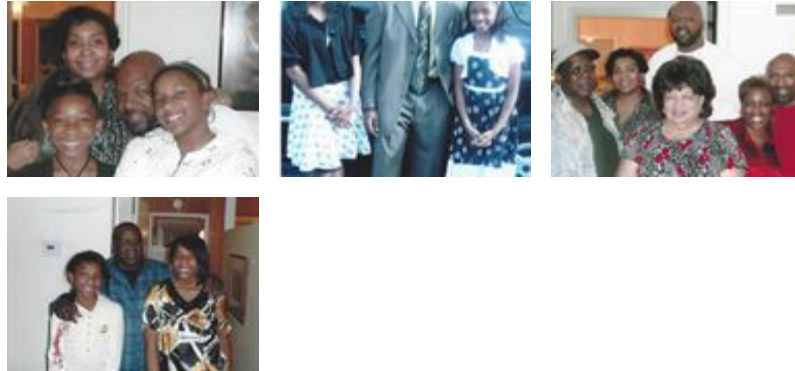

One memorable moment happened while my wife, Joleen, and I were watching a sketch artist at Fisherman's wharf. I heard Ken's deep bellowing voice and when I turned around I saw Ken and Lisa together. They had just been busted by the boss and their "secret" office romance was no longer secret. I could not have been happier for them - they made a perfect couple.

Basketball has been a big part of my life so I wish I could have made it down to the Bay Area a few years earlier to watch Ken play basketball for St. Mary's (where I eventually earned a degree also).

“ *Ken, I encountered you at a gathering with my better half. You sat quietly, just enjoying the fellowship of long time friends. I watched you intently as you interacted with everyone. I saw your Ora and felt your presence. I had to sit and talk with you. Never having seen you in life or photo, I knew you. I saw into your heart, how much you loved your Family and Friends. After learning who you were, it became clear to me how I knew you so well. Your greatest qualities live in my Man and I thank you for sharing them with him. He's has become one of my greatest blessings in part because of you. Greater is he that can impact ones life through another man. There is heartache in your passing, a loss in your physical being, being taken too soon, but the greater loss would have been to have never known you at all.
Farewell my friend..
