“ I just learned of Martin's passing. I am one of Martin's Ph.D. students who also was involved in a research project of his in 1960 at the beginning of my Ph.D. studies. Martin later became a colleague at NYU University Heights (Bronx). We had further interactions over my professional career. Clearly, he was a special person to me who influenced my life considerably. He was always a caring person, willing to guide me when that was needed and a wonderful colleague throughout my career.

“ The entire NYU Courant community sends our heartfelt condolences to the friends and family of the Davis', especially their sons Harold and Nathan. Martin was a vivid and vital presence whose vision helped to shape our Institute's current form. We published a tribute to Martin and Virginia, which you can read here: <https://cims.nyu.edu/dynamic/news/1421/>
